

New State-of-the-Art Intermodal Terminal Opens in San Antonio, TX, Effective December 15

Dear Valued Customer,

Effective Monday, December 15, 2008, UPRR will open their new state-of-the-art San Antonio, TX Intermodal Terminal (SAIT, TX). All volume previously operating through former UPRR terminals, East Yard and South San Antonio, will now be routed through SAIT, TX.

The hours of operations will be 24 hours, seven days a week.

The address is:
13001 IH35 South
Von Ormy, TX 78073

The transition from old ramps to the new SAIT, TX facility will be:

- Outbound shipments from San Antonio/San Antonio TOFC, TX: San Antonio (SoSan) will close on Friday, December 12, 2008 at 1900 hours. San Antonio (East Yard) will close on December 12, 2008 at 2300 hours. All subsequent outbound shipments must be billed from the new SAIT, TX facility. New facility gates will open at 700 hours Monday December 15, 2008.
- Shipments enroute to San Antonio, TX: All shipments destined to San Antonio, TX tendered prior to December 11, 2008 will terminate and notify at the existing San Antonio, TX terminals. All subsequent shipments will terminate at SAIT, TX. The old San Antonio and San Antonio TOFC, TX terminals will remain staffed through December 19, 2008 for pick-up of any freight that might have grounded at those facilities prior to the cut-over. Gate hours at both terminals will be 0800 hours to 1700 hours. Any freight not picked up on or before December 19 will be drayed to the new SAIT, TX facility and will be re-notified as available at this location.
